ROLAND

Roberts BAND

"Whether it's his soulful solo performance, where his masterful word craft will have you smiling, or leading his band in rocking renditions of his original songs, Roland Roberts embodies what real live music is all about. It's rock, but it's country, but it's not. It's simple, authentic, well-crafted, and unique."

Roberts BAND

About

Roland Roberts is able to blend an array of genres into a captivating yet delicate musical experience. With comparisons to the likes of John Prine, his storytelling and stage presence have entertained audiences across North America. After recording his debut album, All About The Timing in Whitehorse, Yukon and settling in Hatcher Pass, Alaska, Roberts connected with drummer Matthew Wallace. They soon added talented multi-instrumentalist Matt Faubion and bass player extraordinaire Garrett Monroe creating the Roland Roberts Band. They have since become a staple in the flourishing Alaska music scene.
